Mrs. Levi McDonald is down from Bonanza, on a visit to old friends and relatives in the city. Mr. McDonald is expected today, when they will remove some of their household goods to Bonanza, where they have decided to cast their fortune for the future. They have purchased the Hoagland ranch, about three miles from Bonanza, and expect to make that their home hereafter.

IN ARMY FROM NOW ON

Chef de Cuisines of Military Not to Have Such Warlike Duties to Divert Their Attention From Their More Important Duties

Special to The Herald

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—An order has just been issued by the war department making the business of being a cook in the American army more attractive. In the past this has not been regarded as the most desirable job on earth because the regulations required an individual to be both a cook and a soldier. Now the soldier part of the work is cut out.

No longer will the company cooks have to take off their aprons and caps at certain intervals, put on uniforms and go out and learn to shoot. Cooks in the past have had to leave their professional work and pursue the task of trying to be fighting men.
